Inspiration for the Week

Pope Francis constantly reminds us of the wideness of God's Mercy and its unconditional character. God is always patiently loving His children and opening the doors to His heart. We must, however, freely choose to accept God's invitation and join in the feast of His love. We desire many things and we have restless hearts. We often attempt to quench our desire with things that are short-lived and shallow. All of us long to be satisfied and at peace. How do we announce to the world, in ways that are convincing and without judgment, that it is really God Whom we seek?

All Souls Day

XXVIII Sunday in Ordinary Time

"My friend,

how is it that you came in here without a wedding garment?"

Today's Gospel parable is unsettling in several ways. The various images of rejection, mistreatment, and violence paint an unpleasant picture. Guests refuse to come to a feast, servants are killed, troops are dispatched. The King continues to try to fill his dinner hall, and then when someone finally does show up, the King throws him out for wearing the wrong clothes. What is going on here? The message would have been a poignant one for His Jewish listeners. As the chosen people, they were the first to receive the "invitation" to share in the Kingdom of God. But the chief priests and elders were uninterested in accepting Jesus and His authority; thus they didn't show up for the feast. But what about those who did come? Something is expected of them as well. Donning a "wedding garment" is like being properly prepared to enter God's Kingdom. Just showing up isn't enough.

Here it's important to pay attention to the details. The King first calls his poorly dressed guest "friend." The approach begins with mercy and kindness. But the man gives no defense for himself, and displays no desire to change. It's as if he doesn't really care to be there at all.

The question this raises for us is whether or not we are "dressed" appropriately. We may hang around the banquet hall--going to church, professing to be Christian--but are we sincere guests of the King of Kings? Do we truly accept Christ's teachings and live by them, or are we just showing up? The splendors of the invitation Christ gives us should not be taken for granted. We are called to share in a royal feast. May we all be grateful guests.

Saint Luke, Evangelist

The Evangelist St. Luke was a native of Antioch in Syria, and by profession a physician. After our Lord's Ascension into Heaven, he spent a great part of his time with St. Paul, whom he accompanied to various places, and greatly assisted in bringing over proselytes to the Christian faith. St. Luke preached the Gospel with great success in a variety of places, independent of his assisting St. Paul. He traveled into different parts of Egypt and Greece. The anniversary of his martyrdom is held on the 18th of October. St. Luke wrote two books for the use of the Church; namely his Gospel, and the Acts of the Apostles. Both these he dedicated to Theophilus, which many of the ancients suppose to be a feigned name, denoting a lover of God, a title common to all sincere Christians. But others think it was a real person, because of the title of "most excellent" is attributed to him; which was the usual form of address, in those times, to princes, and other distinguished characters.

His Gospel contains the principal transactions of his life of Our Blessed Redeemer; and in his Acts of the Apostles, which it is probable he wrote in Rome about the time of material actions of the principal apostles, especially St. Paul, whose activity in the cause of Christ made him bear a very great part in the labors of His Master; and St. Luke, being His almost constant attendant, was consequently capable of giving a more full and satisfactory account of them than any other of the apostles.

Catholic Quotes

"Therefore be merciful, even as your Father is also merciful."

-Luke 6:36

Nourishing Prayer

As you celebrate the Eucharist, pay careful attention to the entire Eucharistic Prayer, noting the thanksgiving and praise for all creation, the calling of the Holy Spirit to bless the gifts, the institution narrative, the commemoration of the life, death and resurrection of Christ, and the intercessions for the whole Church, including the living and the dead.

As you receive Communion, be aware that you are joining with others throughout the world who are becoming one with Christ and building up the Body of Christ in the world. Be mindful that that when you leave the church you are called to help bring about the Kingdom of God.

XXVIII Niedziela Zwykła

Pan Bóg objawia się nam dzisiaj jako wielki i hojny Gospodarz, który wyprawia dla nas ucztę i na nią zaprasza. My jesteśmy skłonni wyobrazić sobie Pana Boga częściej jako sędziego wymierzającego sprawiedliwość, gdy tymczasem dzisiejsza liturgia słowa ukazuje Go, jako Ojca zapraszającego swoje dzieci do stołu obficie zastawionego. Jest to stół królestwa Bożego przygotowany już na tej ziemi, we wspólnocie Kościoła, który jest także zapowiedzią wiecznej uczyty niebieskiej.

Pan Bóg na pierwszym miejscu, szczególnie w dzisiejszej Ewangelii, jawi się nam jako zapraszający, abyśmy przyszli na przygotowaną ucztę, ponieważ On pragnie nas ugościć bogactwem swojego słowa, mocą swojej miłości i nakarmić pokarmem, który zagasi najgłębsze pragnienia i da siłę do dobrego przeżywania życia.

World Mission Sunday: Next Weekend, October 22

World Mission Sunday, our annual worldwide Eucharistic celebration for the Missions and missionaries of the world, will be on October 22. This collection on the next-to-last Sunday in October is a unique, global effort for the entire Church to provide for the building up of over one thousand local churches in Asia and Africa, the Pacific Islands, and parts of Latin America and Europe. Through the work of these churches, and their witness to Christ, the poor receive practical help and experience God's love and mercy, His hope and peace.

This year, we are reminded by Pope Francis that Mission is at the Heart of Christian Faith; the materials for World Mission Sunday from the Society for the Propagation of the Faith encourage an ongoing formative relationship for mission, offering portraits of today's missionaries inspired by the words of our Chief Missionary, Pope Francis.
